

ENVIRONMENT-OF-CARE STANDARDS:

ENHANCING THE SAFETY OF THE PHYSICAL
ENVIRONMENT FOR BEHAVIORAL HEALTH CARE

A COMPACT DISC (CD) TRAINING

Learn what hospital and residential treatment providers need to know to assess risk and improve the built environment in which psychiatric and addiction care is delivered

This two-hour compact disc (CD) is designed to help you address accreditation and compliance issues related to the safety of your building and treatment units for patients with psychiatric and addiction disorders. Starting January 1, 2005, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) will be paying specific attention to environment-of-care standards. This new survey emphasis brings into focus the importance for behavioral healthcare providers to be up-to-date on the best strategies for enhancing the safety of the physical environment as it impacts the safety of patients, staff, and visitors.

Learn from a top JCAHO environment-of-care expert and national leaders about the thinking behind the new JCAHO requirement, ways to enhance the safety of your unit, how the Life Safety Code impacts behavioral health, where to locate hard-to-find specialty items, and how to avoid costly design and renovation mistakes.
